Car people in the Calgary area still insist on having their car shows all on the same day.

I had a choice of going to the 34th Annual Presidential Show or the Al Azhar Show at Cross Iron Mills.

These big decisions are decided by a flip of the coin. It came up heads, so it would be Cross Iron Mills.

Except Peter, my sponsor at Lakeview Auto called to say they had room in their display for three cars, and one of the guys got called in to work... could I bring my '34 Ford to take his place.

So, over-riding the coin toss, I headed out to the site of the Mustang Show, where I know everyone anyhow.

They're not used to seeing me in a Ford and Ken stopped me at the entrance.

"If the spark plug wires come off the back of that engine, we're not gonna allow you in." I assured him it was, in fact, all Ford.

Lakeview had their tent set up for shade and lemonade, with models Dani (blonde) and Tessa (brunette) kept busy cooling everyone down. It was so hot I saw a dog chasing a rabbit and they were both walking...

Lakeview sponsors an award for the entrant they figure most deserves it. After four hours they picked a young couple with a new baby and their bone-stock Mustang for the $717 choice this year.

We'll explain the amount down the road.
